Deloitte HR Interview Questions & Answers for Freshers

The most common question in an interview is Tell About Yourself/ Introduce Yourself. So, prepare for it and follow the below questions that are frequently asked by the Deloitte Recruiters and expect you to answer them in a better way.

1. Tell me about your weaknesses or your biggest failure at work

Don't give expected answers like "I Don't have any Weaknesses" because no individual will be without any flaws. By saying you don't have any weakness, you are making the interviewer think that you are not being genuine. The first thing the interviewer expects from you is to be genuine while answering any question. So, you can respond by saying "How You Give too Much Attention to details or "You Overthink Too Much". But also explain to the interviewer giving attention to details or overthinking helps you to achieve positive results in your work. And also talk about how you are trying to overcome them or trying to correct them.
