SECTION-II
ENGLISH LANGUAGE & COMPREHENSION

Questions 36 to 40 are based on the following passage:

To those who do listen, the desert speaks of things with an emphasis quite different from that of the shore, the mountain, the valley or the plains. Whereas these invite action and suggest limitless opportunity and exhaustless resources, the implications and the mood of the desert are something different. For one thing, the desert is conservative, not radical. It is more likely to provide awe than to invite conquest. The heroism which it encourages is the heroism of the endurance, not that of conquest. It brings man up against his limitations, turns him in upon himself and suggests values which more indulgent regions suppress. Sometimes it induces contemplation in men who have never contemplated before. And of all the answers to the question- what is a desert good for- 'contemplation' is perhaps the best.

36. In order to receive the desert's message, the beholder needs to be:

- a) Courageous in his reactions
- b) Conservative in his responses
- c) A good listener
- d) Sensitive to nature

37. The desert is unique among landscapes in that it encourages only:

- a) Contemplation
- b) Indolence
- c) Heroic endeavour
- d) Adventurous spirit

38. If one responds with insight to the mood of the desert, it evokes:

- a) An inclination for deep thought
- b) The possibility of unending resources
- c) The desire for heroic conquest
- d) A sense of intense revulsion

39. The writer calls the desert 'conservative' rather than 'radical' because it provides an environment that:

- a) Inspires man to explore it
- b) Offers unlimited opportunity to conquer
- c) Tests one's endurance
- d) Makes one gloomy

40. What does the phrase "it brings man up against his limitations" mean?

- a) It makes man feel hopeless
- b) It makes man aware of his limitations
- c) It compels man to fight against his limitations
- d) It persuades man to overcome his limitations
