SECTION –II ENGLISH

QUESTIONS 36-40

Direction: Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Traditional Indian Values must be viewed both from the angle of the individual and from that of the geographically delimited agglomeration of peoples or groups enjoying a common system of leadership which we call the 'State'. The Indian 'State's' special feature is the peaceful, or perhaps mostly peaceful, co-existence of social groups of various historical provenances which mutually adhere in a geographical, economic, and political sense, without ever assimilating to each other in social terms, in ways of thinking, or even in language. Modern Indian law will determine certain rules, especially in relation to the regime of the family, upon the basis of how the loin-cloth is tied, or how the turban is worn, for this may identify the litigants as members of a regional group, and therefore as participants in its traditional law, though their ancestors left the region three or four centuries earlier. The use of the word 'State' above must not mislead us. There was no such thing as a conflict between the individual and the State, at least before foreign governments became established, just as there was no concept of state 'sovereignty' or of any church-and-state dichotomy.

Modern Indian 'secularism' has an admittedly peculiar feature; it requires the state to make a fair distribution of attention and support amongst all religions. These blessed aspects of India's famed tolerance (Indian kings so rarely persecuted religious groups that the exceptions prove the rule) at once struck Portuguese and other European visitors to the West Coast of India in the sixteenth century, and the impression made upon them in this and other ways gave rise, at one remove, to the basic constitution of Thomas More's Utopia. There is little about modern India that strikes one at once as Utopian, but the insistence upon the inculcation of norms, and the absence of bigotry and institutionalized exploitation of human or natural resources, are two very different features which link the realities of India and her tradition with the essence of all Utopians.

36. Which of the following is a special feature of the Indian State ?
- Peaceful co-existence of people under a common system of leadership
 - Peaceful co-existence of social groups of different historical provenances attached to each other in a geographical, economic and political sense
 - Social integration of all groups
 - Cultural assimilation of all social groups
37. The author uses the word 'State' to highlight
- Antagonistic relationship between the state and the individual throughout the period of history.
 - Absence of conflict between the state and the individuals upto a point in time.
 - The concept of state sovereignty.
 - Dependence on religion.
38. Which one is the peculiar feature of modern Indian 'Secularism'?
- No discrimination on religious considerations
 - Total indifference to religion
 - No space for social identity
 - Disregard for social law
39. The basic construction of Thomas More's Utopia was inspired by
- Indian tradition of religious tolerance
 - Persecution of religious groups by Indian rulers
 - Social inequality in India
 - European perception of Indian State
40. What is the striking feature of modern India?
